86. The Registrar submitted the following Report from the Committee appointed to consider the desirability of changing the dates of the University Examinations :—

The Committee having carefully considered the proposals made by the Director of Public Instruction together with the replies to his circular letter of August 1882, received from Directors of Public Instruction in other provinces, Inspectors of Schools, and Heads of affiliated Institutions, unanimously recommend that the time of holding the Entrance, F. A. and B. A. Examinations be altered to April. The present practice involves serious inconveniences; Schools and Colleges have to be closed for about six weeks or two months of the best season for work; the work is more or less disorganised for another month or six weeks owing to the breaking up of old classes and the formation of new ones; and the burden of the educational work of the year is thrown on the seasons when students and teachers alike are least able to work with comfort and efficiency. Some of these inconveniences would be removed by holding the Examinations immediately before the Durga Pujah, i. e., in September; but this arrangement would still throw the heaviest work on the most trying part of the year, and the Examinations would fall in the most unhealthy season, and just at the time when the difficulties of travelling are greatest. These objections do not apply to the proposal to hold the Examinations in April. There may be occasional outbreaks of sickness in that month, but these might occur in any month. March and April are the months in which the number on the rolls of Schools and Colleges is highest. The difficulty arising from the heat might be removed by having only one Examination paper each day—say from 7 to 10 in the morning, and increasing the number of days to 8 for the Entrance and 10 for the F. A. Examination. The same rule applied to the B. A. Examination would require other 10 or 12 days; so that the three Examinations would, if the B. A. Examination be held separately as at present, occupy a month. The Committee, however, see no reason why the B. A. Examination should not be held simultaneously with the Entrance and F. A. Examinations. The three Examinations would thus occupy no more time than at present, and the Examinees would have a clear advantage in having only one paper a day, and that too at a season when they are free from the discomfort caused by cold. The Committee accordingly recommend that the Entrance, F. A. and B. A. Examinations be held simultaneously in the month of April, and that they be so arranged that they may be concluded in the week ending between the 19th and 25th inclusive.

With regard to the M. A. Examination similar reasoning might be applied, but, on the whole, the Committee are of opinion that it should be held toward the end of November, say in the third week. Candidates for this Examination, must depend largely on private study, and the adoption of the proposal now made would practically secure 18 months for preparation instead of the 12 months now devoted to it. It is desirable too that the strain of lecturing to M. A. students should be removed at the time when the work of the F. A. and B. A. classes is heaviest. And if the B. L. Examination also were held in November, as it seems to the Committee it might well be, the actual time occupied by Examinations during the year would remain as at present.

In the event of the proposed alterations being adopted, the Committee are of opinion that the time of holding the Convocation for conferring degrees should also be changed. They recommend that it should be held in December, say on the day before the commencement of the Christmas holidays.

RESOLVED—

That the Report be adopted, that the Entrance, F. A and B. A. Examinations be held simultaneously in the month of April, and that they be so arranged that they may be concluded in the week ending between the 19th and 25th April.

RESOLVED ALSO—

That the Examinations be held from 7 to 10 o'clock A. M., and that one paper only be given each day.

RESOLVED ALSO—

That the first Entrance, F. A. and B. A. Examinations under this arrangement be held in April 1885.

RESOLVED ALSO—

That the M. A. and B. L. Examinations be held in the third week in November, but that to avoid inconvenience, the next M. A. and B. L. Examinations be held in February 1885.

RESOLVED ALSO—

That copies of the above Resolutions be circulated to Heads of affiliated Colleges and to the Heads of the Education Department in the various provinces.

RESOLVED—

RESOLVED—

That the Registrar ask the Principal of the Metropolitan Institution for an explanation on the subject.

89. The Registrar submitted various petitions forwarded by Heads of affiliated Institutions from candidates who had failed at the late F. A. and B. A. Examinations praying that in view of the changes in the courses of study, they might be allowed another Examination in the subject laid down for 1883 and 1884 respectively.

RESOLVED—

That subject to the sanction of the Senate F. A. and B. A. Examinations be held on the 12th May next in the respective courses laid down for the years 1883 and 1884 to which shall be admitted those candidates only who have failed at the late or any previous Examinations; the Examinations to be held from 7 to 10 A. M. and only one paper set each day.

No. 96.

From

THE PRINCIPAL, Patna College.

To

THE REGISTRAR, Calcutta University,
Calcutta.

Dated Bankipore, the 24th February, 1883.

SIR

I have the honor to draw the attention of the Syndicate to a point in the arrangement of the Successive Literature Courses.

My remarks will be made with reference to the F. A. Examination, but they apply equally well to the B. A. Examination.

A student, who has failed in one of the F. A. Examinations, endeavours to pass the next Examination by reading for another year (or it may be for a less period) in the Second Year class of a College.

He has not only to strengthen himself in those subjects in which he was proved to be weak, but he encounters a new difficulty. He endeavours in one year to get up a new Literature Course.

This Course, even with the assistance of lectures, is supposed to need two years. He endeavours with half the assistance to read it in half the time.

Suppose, however, that the following arrangements were adopted. The F. A. Literature Course for the Examination of 1885 is composed of certain books which we may divide into two groups—say group A and group B.

Let the Literature Course for 1886 be composed of the same group B and a new group C. In like manner, let the Course for 1887 be groups C and D.

If this plan were adopted, a student, who failed in a certain year—say 1886, would already have studied a part of the Literature Course for 1887.

He would only have as a new subject the group D, and this he might reasonably expect to get up in the year 1887 with the aid of the lectures delivered in the year.

The advantage of decreasing the number of students who fail more than once is by no means confined to these students themselves. The whole Second Year class of any year will be benefited by the change now proposed.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

A. EWBANK,

Principal.

It was proposed by Mr. A. M. Bose, that the Faculty recommend to the Syndicate to give effect to the suggestion contained in Mr. Ewbank's letter in the selection of Successive Courses in English Literature for the F. A. and B. A. Examinations.

Pandit Maheschandra Nyayaratna seconded the motion. Carried.

121. The Faculty announced that the Hon'ble Ameer Ali and Maulavi Amir Hossein were added to the list of Members of the Board of Studies in Arabic, Persian and Urdu.

122. The following letter from Mr. Hastie was laid before the Faculty.

123. Read the following letter from Dr. W. Markby enclosing a copy of the Resolution embodying a proposal for the Hebdomadal Council and asking the University to favour him with their observations.

BALLIOL COLLEGE, OXFORD.
April 24th, 1883.

SIR,

I had the honour of addressing you a short time since on the subject of giving certain privileges in this University to Members of Indian Universities. On that occasion I wrote of my own motion, not knowing what course the Committee would take. At their last meeting, however, the Committee determined to send to your University, with others, a resolution embodying a proposal, and to ask you to favour the University with your observations upon it.

The advantages proposed to be conferred upon students of your University who have taken a degree may not seem large, but there is a difficulty in passing a general Statute applicable to several Universities which confers privileges contingent on any other event than that of taking a degree.

I hope that you will consider this proposal as an earnest of our desire to establish a communication with the Universities in India.

I remain,
Sir,
Your Obedient Servant.
(Signed) W. MARKBY.

RESOLUTION.

"It is desirable to admit persons who are certified to have passed all the Examinations required for a Degree at any Indian or Colonial University, and are also certified to have completed a course of two years at a College affiliated to such University, to the privileges granted to students of affiliated Colleges at Oxford; viz.,—the privilege of being excused from Responsions and of being admitted to Moderations before Matriculation, and of obtaining a Degree after two years' residence, if they obtain honours either in the First or Second Public Examination."

RESOLVED—

That the Hebdomadal Council be informed that the Senate cordially welcome the proposed arrangement.

124. The Syndicate recommended that Mr. W. Johnson be permitted to appear at the second M. B. Examination without passing the previous examinations of this University as laid down in the Regulations.

RESOLVED—

That Mr. W. Johnson be allowed to go in for the 2nd M. B. Examination.

125. The Syndicate recommended for adoption the following recommendations of the Faculty of Engineering.

That to "iii. Engineering Construction" in the subjects for Examination for L. C. E. (Branch A) be added,

"Attested designs for an Engineering work executed by the candidate will be submitted to the Examiner, to which marks will be assigned." And that to "iii. Machinery" in the subjects of Examination for L. C. E. (Branch B) be added, "Attested designs executed by the candidate will be submitted to the Examiner to which marks will be assigned."

RESOLVED—

That the Government of India be moved to sanction this addition to the Regulations for the Licence in Engineering.

126. The Syndicate proposed that in the Regulations for the B. A. Examination the words "and at such other places as shall from time to time be appointed by the Syndicate" be substituted for the words "and Agra."

RESOLVED—

That the Government of India be moved to sanction the above alteration in the Regulations for the B. A. Examination.

Dr. Rajendralala Mitra, C. I. E. seconded the motion which was carried.

128. The Syndicate reported that pending the sanction of the Senate they had announced that the F. A. and B. A. Examinations would be held on the 12th May and following days.

Mr. Robertson moved that the Senate sanction the action of the Syndicate in dispensing, as regards the supplementary F. A. and B. A. Examinations to be held on the 12th May and following days, with the Certificate from the Head of an affiliated Institution showing that a candidate "has prosecuted a regular course of study for six months since the date of the last Examination to which he was admitted" and that the Examinations to be held in May be open to all Candidates who shall have completed a two years' prescribed course in an affiliated Institution before the 31st March 1884.

131. The Senate was convened for the purpose of conferring degrees.

The Vice-Chancellor having declared the Convocation opened, the Graduates of the year were admitted to their respective degrees in the usual manner.

The Hon'ble the Vice-Chancellor then addressed the Senate and Graduates as follows :—

When it devolved upon me last year to deliver, in this place, the usual Convocation address, I noticed the steady increase in the number of candidates who offered themselves for examination by the University. It was then an unprecedented thing that the candidates for matriculation should have exceeded 3,000, and that those for the First Arts Examination should have reached 1,300. It might have been thought that the numbers last year were due to some exceptional cause which would not recur, and that, at all events, the establishment of the Punjab University would diminish the list of our students. But another series of examinations has now been held, and we find the numbers larger than ever. The candidates for matriculation have this year been 3,591, for the First Arts they have been 1,495, and there have been 501 candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts. In the short space of five years, the candidates for the B. A. degree have doubled in number, and the candidates for the First Arts Examination have doubled in the last eight years. In the Entrance Examination of this year, about 50 per cent. of the candidates were successful; for the First Arts, the percentage was a little more than 43, for the B. A. degree it was 46. For the degree of Bachelor of Law there were 93 candidates, of whom 52 were successful. Thirty-seven candidates out of 50 obtained Honours in Arts, and 27 out of 36 candidates passed for the M. A. degree.

We speak of these results—and we are justified in so speaking of them—as matters for congratulation, and satisfactory tokens of progress: but I am not sure that their significance is always fully appreciated. During the past ten years, about 13,000 students have passed the Entrance Examination, and the candidates for matriculation now number between 3,000 and 4,000 every year. These students, the school-boys of yesterday, the undergraduates of to-day, will be the men of a few years hence, and the fathers of the next generation. Their actual number, it is true, is still insignificant; but their influence is already out of proportion to their number, and their numbers are rapidly increasing. We already see them uniting in clubs and associations, holding discussions and passing resolutions on public questions, calling for legal and administrative reforms, criticizing the conduct of affairs, and drawing up memorials to the University or the Government. I am not one of those who regard this movement with any dislike or apprehension. We may sometimes have to smile at some foolish words, or to deplore some intemperate outbursts; we may think that their opinions of public men and public measures are often crude, hasty, and ill-informed; and that Government understands its business quite as well as the young amateurs who volunteer to correct and advise it. But these blemishes are of no great importance: they are faults of youth, which time and experience will remove. These energies, toned down by advancing years, and guided by more matured judgment, will do good work hereafter in the towns and villages of Bengal. My present object, however, is not so much to discuss the tendencies of this movement as to draw attention to its existence. The graduates and matriculated students of the University are rapidly becoming, at all events in Bengal, a kind of power in the State; they exercise a great and growing influence on the elements of which native society is composed; they are leavening the mass of Hinduism with new theories of religion, politics, and science; they are tending to form a body of public opinion, not only on matters between the people and the Government, but on those far more important questions, to the settlement of which Government can contribute so little,—questions which affect the daily lives, the habits, and the modes of thought of the general community. It may be a matter for consideration whether, in view of the enlarged numbers and extended influence of the University, the time has not come for reconstituting its governing body, the Syndicate, on a wider basis, so as to secure a more adequate representation of the several Faculties.

Some matters of detail, connected with the examinations of the year, may be of interest to notice. The senior wrangler of the year, if I may borrow the phrase from Cambridge, is Ashotosh Mookerjea of the Presidency College, who stands first on the list of B. A. graduates, and is the winner of the Eshan and Vizianagram scholarships and of the Hurrish Chunder prize for mathematics. Among those who have taken Honours in Arts, the only first class man in English is Jogen Chundra Dutt, of the Presidency College. He has worthily maintained the literary reputation for which his family is distinguished, for he is, I believe, a cousin of that gifted and lamented lady, too early lost to India, the late Toru Dutt. In the same class-list it is gratifying to see the name of a lady who last year won the distinction of the Bachelor's degree, Chundramukhi Bose, of the Free Church Institution. In the examination for the legal degree, the candidate who stands highest is Bhupati Chuckerbutty, of the Presidency College, to whom has been awarded the gold medal given for distinguished proficiency in law. The school which has shown, on the whole, the best results, not in point of mere numbers, but in proportion to its size and to the number of its candidates, is the Mussoorie school. In the class-list for the Entrance Examination appears the name of a young gentleman who holds a high military command in the army of Nepal, and who has shown on this occasion that he can handle the pen not less efficiently than the sword. I observe with great satisfaction that the year shows a marked increase in the number of Mahomedan students who find a place in our class-lists, and I trust that this increase is an earnest of a permanent movement among this section of the community to take their proper share in the educational progress which they see going on around them. Finally, I would remark that last year it was my duty to announce that no candidate had attained a sufficient standard of merit to justify the award of the Premchand Roychand studentship. This year, the studentship has not only been awarded, but it has been awarded to a candidate, Ramchunder Majoomdar, of the Presidency College, who has passed an exceptionally brilliant and creditable examination. His success is the more satisfactory, because it is due, not to a superficial acquaintance with several branches of knowledge, but to his thorough mastery of the particular departments of study in which he offered himself for examination.

At the examinations of next year, the new regulations for the B. A. degree and for the First Arts Examination will come into force. This change in the subjects of study will necessarily operate to the disadvantage of those students who competed this year, but failed to satisfy the examiners. It has, therefore, been determined to hold a subsidiary examination in May, so as to give these candidates another chance. As far as the First Arts Examination is concerned, I am not sure that it would not be desirable to make this a permanent arrangement, and to allow unsuccessful candidates to try again in the middle of the year. It is also contemplated to alter the time of year at which the annual examinations are held. Under the present system, the greater part of the cold weather, the best season of the year for steady and regular work, is taken up with the annual examinations; and the schools and colleges hardly settle down to any definite course of study between the beginning of he Durga Poojah vacation, and the issue of the class-lists in January. It is intended in future to hold the examinations (or at any rate the examinations in Arts) in the month of April. The change will, I know, be welcomed by the affiliated institutions, and I think it will prove of great advantage both to professors and to their pupils.

Among those whom death has removed, during the past year, from the roll of our Senate, something more than a passing notice is due to the memory of Peary Chand Mittra. He was among the most senior of our Fellows, and in him Bengal has lost one of its most distinguished authors. To him belongs the credit of having struck out a new line in vernacular literature, by his composition of what I believe is recognized as the first Bengali novel, and he was also a regular contributor to the Calcutta Review. But his literary achievements are not his highest title to the affection and esteem with which his name will long be cherished. It is to his exertions, as a Member of the Legislative Council, that Bengal owes the Act for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and he was one of the most energetic members of the Society which has been instituted for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of that excellent and merciful law.

But, if the living are taken from our midst, the dead sometimes seem to come back to us. It is the province of the painter and the sculptor to reproduce the features and figures of the illustrious departed, so as not only to preserve their memory, but almost to restore to us their living presence. A work of art of this kind has lately been placed in the vestibule of our Senate-house, the statue of our honoured fellow-citizen and benefactor, Prosunno Kumar Tagore. I need not here speak of the claims of that eminent man to public respect, and in particular to the grateful recollection of the University of Calcutta. The generous and eloquent tribute which our Chancellor paid to his memory on the day on which that statue was unveiled, expressed, in happier language than I could use, the feeling of common admiration for the integrity which distinguished his life, and for the public spirit which led him to dedicate his wealth to the encouragement of the study of law in this University. His munificent benefaction has lately been supplemented by the present representative of his name and inheritor of his virtues, Sir Jotendro Mohun Tagore, to whose liberality we owe not only the statue which adorns this building, but also the medals which will henceforth be annually presented to the two most deserving students who attend the Tagore lectures, and of which the first award has been made to-day.

A notice of the educational history of the year would be incomplete without some reference to the effect of the first International Exhibition which has been held in India. This is not the occasion to speak of the economic results of the Exhibition, of its influences on the trade and commerce of the country, of its usefulness in bringing both producers and consumers in India within the reach of new markets. I speak of it to-day as an educational agency, and as such it cannot but have made an impression even on the simple rustic who regarded it with a kind of stolid wonder as a mere Jadooghar, a mere palace of magic. The Exhibition is a school which has taught something even to such unpromising pupils as these; and still more has it aroused the interest, and quickened the intelligence, of the Indian craftsman and artizan. Next, it has been a mighty power in breaking down those traditional habits which in this country seclude the female sex from association with men. No one can have visited the Exhibition without having been struck with the number of native ladies who were to be met with in its courts and galleries. Arrangements were made for setting aside certain days and hours for their visits: but this scheme was only partially successful. They found that they could enter among the general throng of visitors without being in any way molested or annoyed, and they availed themselves freely of this newly-discovered liberty. I saw it stated not long ago in the papers, that nearly 50,000 native ladies had then visited the Exhibition; and, if this statement is correct, the fact is one of which it would be difficult to exaggerate the importance. Lastly, I understand that we have reason to hope, that the Exhibition will leave behind it the nucleus of what may grow hereafter into a school of economics, technology, and the fine arts. Calcutta already possesses a School of Art, but I believe that those who are interested in the development of the industrial arts will recognize the advantages of an arrangement, by which these studies will mutually assist and encourage each other, united round one common centre, and supervised by one common head.

Among the many visitors whom the Exhibition has attracted to Calcutta, has been an eminent Sanskrit scholar, who has laboured earnestly and successfully to draw closer the bonds of union between our University and the University of Oxford. Many who are present to-day were lately gathered in this room to hear what Professor Monier Williams had to tell us of the establishment of the Indian Institute at Oxford. The Institute will be opened in the course of the present year: and the debt of gratitude which we owe to Professor Williams for his exertions in founding it, will be repaid in the manner which will gratify him most, if our students make full use of the advantages which the Institute holds out for their acceptance. Arrangements are now in progress for granting special privileges and facilities to those graduates of our University who may desire to take an Oxford degree: and I trust that the number of such graduates will increase year by year. We have had, within the last few weeks, another interesting proof of the kindly and sympathetic feeling with which this University is regarded by the Universities of Great Britain. We received a communication, informing us that the University of Edinburgh was about to celebrate the three-hundredth anniversary of her foundation, and inviting us to send a delegate to Edinburgh to represent our University on the occasion. It has been wittily and justly said that the Bengali is the Scotchman of India. When the time comes for us to celebrate our three-hundredth anniversary, I trust it will be found that we have been true to the character we bear, and that we can display a series of trophies in literature and science not less illustrious than those which the Edinburgh University can boast of to-day. In the meantime, we cordially welcome this and all other manifestations which tend to excite a community of feeling and interest between us and the Universities of Europe, and to bridge over the gulf which separates the East from the West.

The principal object of our meeting to-day is to recognize and reward the merits of those students who have passed the prescribed examinations of the University. It has been my privilege to admit them to their degrees, and it has been my duty to charge them that ever, in their life and conversation, they show themselves worthy of the distinction which the University has conferred upon them. These words are, I hope, not looked upon by our young graduates as a mere conventional formula. They are words of deep and serious meaning; and it is their object to show that education is intended to be something more than an ability to pass an intellectual test, and that knowledge, though it may deserve honour and reward, falls short of its highest ends, if it fails to influence the character and to elevate the life. The great English poet of our own days has drawn, with a master's hand, the distinction between Knowledge and Wisdom, between the earthly nymph of the mind and the heavenly goddess of the soul. I dare say that passage is familiar to many of you, but let me quote a few words from an author with whom you are, perhaps, less likely to be acquainted. "Into a malicious soul," says an ancient writer, "Wisdom shall not enter, nor dwell in the body that is subject to sin. For Wisdom is a loving spirit." These words were written more than two thousand years ago, and though the author of them is unknown, the truth and beauty of his book have preserved it from the destruction which has overtaken so many of the writings of antiquity. The passage I have quoted seems to me to display a true spiritual insight, and to teach a lesson which it is well to bear in mind. A life of purity and a heart of charity, a conscience void of offence and a soul full of affectionate sympathy—these are the qualities which Wisdom requires in her votaries; these are the conditions under which she will consent to dwell with men. On occasions of this kind, I have sometimes heard students exhorted to follow knowledge for its own sake, not for the wealth or honour it may bring to its possessor, but to find in it its own reward, and to cherish it not for what it gives, but for what it is. That is doubtless a noble aim, but I would remind those students who hear me to-day that there is a higher and nobler object than even this. It is possible for the mere student, however disinterested and self-denying he may be in the pursuit of knowledge, to be dwarfed on the moral side of his being; and it is often complained of as a defect in the education given in our schools and colleges, that it fails to attach due importance to the value of ethical training But he who would make Wisdom his aim, must learn to discipline his passions as well as to enrich his intellect; his life must be free from stain; he must love knowledge, not merely for its own sake, but for the sake of the good it may enable him to do to others; he must grow, (in the words of the poet to whom I have already referred)—

> Not alone in power
> And knowledge: but, from hour to hour,
> In reverence and in charity."

It is a lofty ideal, but not an unattainable one. We meet now and then with a man, in whose character the various elements are so genially mixed, that, while the powers of a capacious intellect are cultivated to their fullest development, the soul remains as pure as the soul of a child, and the heart as tender as the heart of a woman. When such a man has the divine faculty of impressing others with the great truths which permeate his own soul, he becomes a leader of men, and his appearance inaugurates a new era in the spiritual and mental history of the world. Such was Sakyamuni, probably the greatest man whom this country has ever produced. But Sakyamuni, you will perhaps say, is a semi-mythical personage; his age is too far removed from ours; the conditions of modern life are different; to us of the present day he is little more than an abstraction and a name. Well—this country has produced, in the present century, a man cast in a very similar mould, a man who has lived and worked among us, whose features were familiar to us all, and whose words are still fresh in the memory of many who are present to-day. I will not attempt to determine the exact rank which history will assign to Keshub Chunder Sen in the noble band of thinkers, reformers, and philanthropists. The full measure of his greatness we of the present generation are perhaps unable to appreciate; just as a traveller, standing at some mountain's foot, cannot truly estimate the height of the eminence which towers above him. On this point, the next age will form a more accurate judgment than is possible now. But I think we shall not err in saying that when the verdict of posterity is passed upon the life and work of Keshub Chunder Sen, four characteristics in his career will be marked out for prominent notice. First, the marvellous harmony with which his mind united some of the noblest products of Western culture and civilization, with the depth and thoughtfulness of the Oriental intellect. Secondly, the just proportion which his temperament maintained between the domain of thought and the sphere of action. Penetrated as he was with the spirit of devotional religion, he was yet no visionary mystic, his periods of seclusion and meditation were but intervals in which he gathered inward strength for the active prosecution of the work to which his energies and his life were devoted. Thirdly, the catholic spirit which led him to recognise the germs of truth in all religious systems, and to assimilate the loftiest and most ennobling principles of them all. Fourthly, the generous and large-hearted charity which made his career a crusade against all forms of ignorance, oppression, and wrong. The amelioration of suffering, the extension of education, the advocacy of temperance, the discouragement of child-marriage, the emancipation of the Hindu widow—these were the practical aims by which he sought to lighten the burdens and elevate the condition of those around him, no less than by the speculative truths of the pure and lofty theism which he taught.

I have dwelt at some length upon this topic, partly because, in such an assembly as this, it is natural to refer to so momentous an event as the death of one of India's noblest sons, and also because the subject is one which seems to me not inappropriate to the occasion which has called us together to-day. For, though much of Keshub Chunder's greatness was peculiarly his own, the distinctive character of his teaching was largely influenced by his education and training. It is a rare thing for a great religious reformer to be a tolerant man. A religious reformer must be thoroughly in earnest, and a thoroughly earnest man, from the depth of his own convictions, is apt to be impatient with those who differ from him, and to be blind to the merits of any other system than his own. The breadth of view which distinguished Keshub Chunder Sen, the catholicity of mind which gave him earnestness without intolerance, and faith without dogmatism, was due (if I mistake not) to his study of history, to his knowledge of the rise and progress of other theological systems, to his acquaintance with the phenomena of religious thought in other ages and other countries. He was an illustrious example of that culture which it is the aim and the end of this University to foster, the development of the Eastern mind through the science and literature of the West. And there is another reason why, before such an audience as is gathered here to-day, I should speak of the great man whom India has lost. The life of Keshub Chunder Sen is a pledge and an assurance that Providence has yet a great destiny in store for this land. The age and the country which have produced such a man may well look forward with hopeful anticipation to the next scene of the drama in which he played so distinguished a part. But it is not enough merely to wait and to hope. It remains for you, the students of this generation, to follow in his footsteps, to complete his work, to show yourselves worthy to be called his fellow-countrymen.

(1). Whether it could be satisfactorily arranged to appoint a Registrar whose whole time would be available for the work of the University.

(2). Whether it could be satisfactorily arranged to have the Examination papers drawn up by distinguished Representatives of the various departments of study in England.

(3). Whether the appointment of local Examiners in Arts should not be vested in the Faculty of Arts or the Senate.

(4). Whether the relation between the Syndicate and the Faculty of Arts cannot be so defined as to give greater authority and influence to the Faculty in regard to its constitutional interests.

" As it appears that the intention of the University, in prescribing a short text-book, was to secure the thorough study of one book, while by no means limiting the reading of the candidates thereto, the Board of Studies is of opinion that the present style of Examination hardly fulfils that intention, the questions in the current paper being almost entirely confined to grammar and analysis.

The Board considers that the papers in English should include passages from unseen authors, which candidates should be called upon to explain in much the same way as they are expected to explain passages from the text-books."

Vice-Chancellor.

REPORT OF THE SYNDICATE FOR THE YEAR 1883-84.

The usual Examinations have been held during the year in Arts, Law, Medicine, and Engineering; and a tabular statement is appended, shewing the results and affording a comparison with the results of previous years. The total number of candidates who appeared at this year's Examinations was 5,862, against 5,185 in the previous year.

Entrance Examination.

The number of candidates registered for the Entrance Examination was 3,591, of whom 1,785 passed, 1,753 failed, and 53 were absent. Of the successful candidates, 459 were placed in the first division, 955 in the second, and 371 in the third. Of the 1,753 candidates who failed, 1,110 were rejected in English, 848 in the Second Languages, 508 in History and Geography, and 980 in Mathematics. The number of candidates was greater by 480 than in the previous year. The result of the examination shews an increase in the percentage of passed candidates as compared with 1882. The number passed in 1882 was over 46 per cent., whereas in 1883 over 49 per cent. passed.

The following table shews the number of candidates that came up from each province, the number passed, and the percentage of successful candidates for the years 1882 and 1883:—

Changes in the Regulations.

The following changes in the Regulations for the Examination of Female candidates have been sanctioned by the Senate, and approved by his Excellency the Governor-General of India in Council.

In paragraph 3 of the Regulations for the F. A. Examination of Female candidates, the word "Physics" has been substituted for the words "the subjects included in the Second Mathematical paper in the F. A. Examination." (2) Para. 2 of the Regulations for the B. A. Examination of Female candidates has been omitted. (3) The First clause of para. 3 of the Regulations for the B. A. Examination of Female candidates has been omitted. (4) The following Regulation has been adopted for the M. A. Examination of Female candidates. "The M. A. Examination shall be the same for Females as for Males."

On January 10th, the statue of the late Hon'ble Prosunno Kumar Tagore, C. S. I., set up in the covered portico of the Senate House, was formally made over to the University by the donor Sir Jotendra Mohun Tagore. His Excellency the Chancellor in reply delivered an address, and proceeding to the portico unveiled the statue. An address was subsequently delivered by Professor Monier Williams on the subject of the Indian Institute at Oxford.

The following alterations in the dates of the University Examinations have been made by the Syndicate. It has been decided to hold the Entrance, F. A. and B. A. Examinations for the future simultaneously in the month of April. They will be held from 7 to 10 A. M., and one paper only will be given each day. It is obvious that this change involves others. Accordingly the date of the M. A. Examinations has also been altered, and the next M. A. Examination will take place in November 1885. It is proposed to hold the B. L. Examinations in March at the same time as the Medical Examinations. After the present year the Engineering Examinations will take place in June.

The considerations which have led the Syndicate to change the date of the Entrance, F. A. and B. A. Examinations are thus set forth in the report of the Committee appointed to consider the question:—

"The Committee having carefully considered the proposals made by the Director of Public Instruction together with the replies to his circular letter of August 1882, received from Directors of Public Instruction in other provinces, Inspectors of Schools, and Heads of affiliated Institutions, unanimously recommend that the time of holding the Entrance, F. A. and B. A. Examinations be altered to April. The present practice involves serious inconveniences; Schools and Colleges have to be closed for about six weeks or two months of the best season for work; the work is more or less disorganised for another month or six weeks owing to the breaking up of old classes and the formation of new ones; and the burden of the educational work of the year is thrown on the seasons when students and teachers alike are least able to work with comfort and efficiency. Some of these inconveniences would be removed by holding the Examinations immediately before the Durga Pujah, i. e., in September; but this arrangement would still throw the heaviest work on the most trying part of the year, and the Examinations would fall in the most unhealthy season, and just at the time when the difficulties of travelling are greatest. These objections do not apply to the proposal to hold the Examinations in April. There may be occasional outbreaks of sickness in that month, but these might occur in any month. March and April are the months in which the number on the rolls of Schools and Colleges is highest. The difficulty arising from the heat might be removed by having only one Examination paper each day—say from 7 to 10 in the morning, and increasing the number of days to 8 for the Entrance and 10 for the F. A. Examination. The same rule applied to the B. A. Examination would require other 10 or 12 days; so that the three Examinations would, if the B. A. Examination be held separately as at present, occupy a month. The Committee, however, see no reason why the B. A. Examination should not be held simultaneously with the Entrance and F. A. Examinations. The three Examinations would thus occupy no more time than at present, and the Examinees would have a clear advantage in having only one paper a day, and that too at a season when they are free from the discomfort caused by cold. The Committee accordingly recommend that the Entrance, F. A. and B. A. Examinations be held simultaneously in the month of April, and that they be so arranged that they may be concluded in the week ending between the 19th and 25th inclusive."

The Syndicate desire to call attention to the fact that Govt. Promissory Notes of the amount of Rs. 12,500 have been purchased at a cost of Rs. 12,327-0-8 and set aside to form a Reserve Fund.

A statement of Receipts and Disbursements from the 1st of April 1883 to the 31st March 1884 is subjoined.
